

The deal isn't dead. You just stopped talking

How many times do you follow up before you quit? Most sales take five or more conversations. Most salespeople stop after one or two. That gap is where the money is, and almost nobody trains for it. The Fifth Conversation is the follow-up system from the creator of ConvoControl. Not scripts. Not "just checking in." A trained, question-led method for staying in the deal after everyone else has left it.

Inside, you'll train:

- The math that proves the fortune sits in conversations two through five
- The Follow-Up Ladder: how often to touch, on what channel, and when to actually call
- Questions that reopen doors when a deal goes quiet
- Educational, not pushy: value touches that make prospects glad you showed up
- How to sound human when every inbox is flooded with bots
- The proof touch, the ghost play, and the long game
- A drill at the end of every chapter, run on your real pipeline

You don't rise to the occasion. You fall back on how you've trained.

So who's having the fifth conversation with your prospects, you or your competitor?

Tara Shuler is the founder of ConvoControl and the creator of the ConvoDojo. She has 25+ years in sales with $50M+ personally closed across B2B, B2C, and live events. A former Level 9 competitive gymnast and coach, she teaches conversation the way athletes train: drilled until it's reflex.

THE FIFTH CONVERSATION

TARA SHULER

A CONVOCONTROL BOOK

THE FIFTH CONVERSATION

You Didn't Close on the First Call.
Here's How You Win Anyway.

TARA SHULER

Author of Questions Close Deals